

Andrew Kennedy is the President and CEO of the Center for Economic Growth. He previously served as the Deputy Director of State Operations for Governor Andrew M Cuomo overseeing the day-to-day management of New York State government, as well as developing and overseeing implementation of state policies and programs related to economic development. Prior to that, Andrew served as Governor Cuomo's Assistant Secretary for Economic Development coordinating the development and management of the State's economic development and housing efforts.

Prior to joining Governor Cuomo's staff, Andrew worked for over a decade at the New York State Division of Budget and for the New York State Assembly where he developed a detailed understanding of New York's fiscal and economic development policies and programs. Andrew holds a master's degree in public administration from the Nelson A. Rockefeller College of Public Affairs and Policy and a bachelor's degree from Siena College in political science.