Join us in Sunny Tucson in 2004 to Explore New Educational Frontiers

From the Pacific Northwest in 2003, PACRAO heads south, way south in 2004, to Tucson, Arizona, just 35 miles from the border of Mexico. Conference dates are November 7-10.

The Westin La Paloma Resort and Spa may not sound like a place where work will get done, but the conference facilities there are impressive, and the recreational opportunities rival the professional, so you may wish to add a day or two to your visit next November.

Stop by the Tucson booth near registration and learn more about next year's conference. Sign up for a drawing to win a free night at La Paloma, and tell us what you'd like to see and do in Tucson. Wendy Kilgore and Saskia Knight head up the local arrangements committee. The committee welcomes your questions and suggestions.

Session Facilitators

If you have not turned in the evaluations for your session, please do so today or tomorrow before the Business Brunch.

Take the Trail to Tucson

In November 2004, follow the PACRAO Trail to sunny southern Arizona. Before you come, here are some fast facts about the city and region:

Tucson has over 150 Mexican restaurants, including the oldest family operated Mexican restaurant in the US:

Irishman Hugh O'Connor established the Presidio of San Augustin de Tucson in 1775

The Sonoran Desert is the only place in the world where the Giant Saguaro Cactus grows. It takes over 50 years to produce its first arm.

The spectacular Kartchner Caverns State Park harbors the second largest stalactite (21 feet long) in the world!

Near the turn of the century, the federal government gave Tucson a choice – state prison, state university, or state capital. Tucson chose the prison, but got the university. We in higher education are glad they did!

In Tucson, according to the law passed during the Victorian era, it is illegal for women to wear pants...

And finally, Tucson was voted "Friendliest City" and 'one of the top ten US cities to visit' by the readers of Conde Nast Magazine.

Join us next year in friendly, historic Tucson!

PACRAO 2004 – TUCSON BOUND
 Mark your calendars now for Nov. 7-10 and join your colleagues at the impressive La Paloma Resort and experience the clear skies of the Sonora Desert.

The program planning is underway with the leadership of Alicia Moore, program chair. Alicia and her committee welcome suggestions, volunteers, and ideas for keynote speakers. Complete the "Call for Papers" form on the tables at the Business Brunch.

Plans for the conference are being developed by the Tucson Local Arrangements Committee, with co-chairs Wendy Kilgore and Saskia Knight. We promise a warm Arizona welcome to PACRAO.

Tucson's history includes appearances by Wyatt Earp, Doc Holliday, Geronimo, and John Dillinger. Life in Tucson today reflects the rich and adventurous cultures of the southwest.

Take the I-19 to Nogales, Mexico, or an hour's drive to Tombstone. If you find you've celebrated too much the night before, seek out a bowl of menudo to cure that headache. Take time to visit historic places such as the Mission San Xavier del Bac or the El Presidio District. Visit Old Tucson Studios to see where hundreds of western films were made.

REMINDERS

Please complete a conference evaluation before you leave today. We very much want your feedback on the 2003 PACRAO conference.

Delegates if you have not purchased a ticket for the business brunch and wish to attend, please check at the Registration Table.

Presenters please post your sessions at the AACRAO Resources site following the conference. If you have not already picked one up, please pick up your presenter's gift. The gifts will be available at the Registration Table and Business Brunch.

Writer's Team and Delegates you make pick up a CD of all of the articles in PACRAO newsletters this past year.
