Guidance for Writing Behavioral Learning Objectives

There are key components of well-written behavioral learning objectives that – when incorporated – allow for an optimal, articulated experience for learners. Consider using the below checklist when developing your objectives.

Are my learning objectives:

- □ observable and measurable (i.e., use action verbs that describe measurable behaviors)?
- □ statements that clearly describe what the learner will know or be able to do as a result of having attended an educational program or activity?
- $\Box$  focused on the learner?
- $\square$  appropriate in breadth (not too few or too many e.g., 3-4 objectives for a four-hour program)?
- $\Box$  sufficient in depth (at the postdoctoral level for psychologists and clearly articulated e.g., does the whole of the objective make sense and is it appropriate for CE)?
- □ fully linked to: (a) the program narrative, (b) adequate reference support, & (c) promotional materials?

• Example of well-written learning objectives for a 4-hour CE session on hypnosis and pain:

This workshop is designed to help you:

- 1. Describe basic hypnosis theory and technique;
- 2. Compare demonstrations of hypnotic technique and phenomena;
- 3. Explain differences between acute and chronic pain; and
- 4. Utilize hypnosis in controlling acute pain.
